

KIDS for the BAY

Thanks to the support of the Alameda County Fish and Game Commission, KIDS for the BAY achieved the following goals:

- 208 students increased their knowledge of watershed science in the classroom and in the field and became stewards of their watershed environment
- 208 families learned how to reduce pollution to the local watershed
- Seven teachers increased their confidence in using the local watershed as a key educational resource
- The WAP was integrated into the curricula and culture of partner schools.

KIDS for the BAY

In spring 2020, KIDS for the BAY received a $5,000 grant from the Alameda County Fish and Wildlife Propagation Fund to support the Watershed Action Program in four Oakland elementary schools: Greenleaf, Manzanita, New Highland and RISE.

For each class the WAP included four two-hour, hands-on watershed science lessons, a neighborhood trash cleanup project, a special Environmental Action Project and a creek, bay or ocean Field Trip.

“The opportunities we did have to learn with you were some of our favorite days of the school year!”
